British Sources Report Progress Toward Creation of Atomic Policy

Truman, Attlee and King May Issue Communiqué Soon; Prime Minister Will Address Congress

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, of Britain, and King George VI, of Canada, are making good progress toward a joint atomic bomb policy, British officials indicated tonight.

This is true despite disclosure by these authorities of what may be a basic difference in objective between Mr. Truman and Mr. Attlee. Mr. Truman had talked recently of outlawing the atomic bomb.

Mr. Attlee, it is said by his associates, has taken the line that it cannot be outlawed effectively and that the way to handle it is to put it under control of the United Nations Security Council.

Whether the president and prime ministers regard these as conflicting approaches to the problem has not been disclosed. It is stated, however, that expert advisers of the three are already at work drafting a communiqué for the three conferees to go over, and that this may be issued Thursday or Friday.

Price to Reds May Be High

There were indications that if the United States, Britain and Canada decide to offer Russia information about atomic energy, the price to the Russians will be drastic concessions on their policy of national security.

This possibility, which some Allied officials regard almost as a certainty, grows out of Attlee's plan for creating a United Nations pool of basic information on atomic energy and other scientific developments.

Russia like any other country would share in the pool only by contributing to it.

As soon as the Anglo-American-Canadian talks here are wound up it is expected by some of those close to the principals that Generalissimo Stalin will be fully informed of the results.

One purpose of the British plan, according to persons familiar with it, is to reduce Russian suspicions of the Western Allies and try to induce Russia in turn to take political actions which will cut down western suspicions of her.

Attlee is represented as contending that any atomic bomb control to work must depend on good faith among nations. He considers proposals for international inspection to prevent or limit manufacture of the bomb to be ineffective.

Truman Studies Attlee Plan

President Truman had Attlee's plan under consideration today. It was presented to him and to the Canadian prime minister, W. L. Mackenzie King, when the three leaders met yesterday in their second session of talks.

Their conference opened Saturday. They talked briefly again this morning and then Attlee went to the British embassy where he spent the rest of the day working on a speech he will make to a joint session of Congress and to a nationwide radio audience, at 12:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time tomorrow.

While the British plan became generally known here, whatever ideas President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes have evolved for handling the atomic problem on an international scale were kept rigidly secret.

Asked for comment the White House declined even to confirm the plan's existence and at the State department, officials said that the whole affair was one for the White House to decide.

Navy Lieutenant Is Shot to Death

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—A 28-year-old navy lieutenant was shot to death today in an argument which climaxed a house party in California, Md., and St. Marys Medical Examiner F. P. Greenwell said today a slot machine repairman was being held in the Leonardtown jail.

Dr. Greenwell said that Lt. Rodgers Edward Wilson was killed after he re-entered the house over the protests of a fellow officer who had accompanied him to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George William Booker.

The examiner said Booker, about 25 years old, was being held for questioning. He added that Mrs. Booker, whom Greenwell said was the only other person in the house at the time, was taken in a hysterical condition to the home of neighbors.

Dr. Greenwell, who went to the home soon after the midnight shooting, said he could not describe actual circumstances leading up to the tragedy.

Thanksgiving Day Is Proclaimed by Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Truman called upon Americans today to observe November 22 as a day of national thanksgiving for the "blessing of victory."

The president's proclamation requested that the people "give thanks with the humility of free men, each knowing it was the might of no one arm but of all together by which we were saved."

Lewis's Associates Deny UMW's Return to AFL

Frankenstein, UAW Vice President, Reports Amalgamation; Green Terms Secret Agreement "Bunk"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A CIO source passed along a report today that John L. Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers, is back in the American Federation of Labor but Lewis's associates denied it.

Likewise, President William L. Green, of the AFL, termed "bunk" a published hint that a secret agreement had been reached with Lewis and a substantial amount of dues paid the AFL.

But Richard T. Frankenstein, vice president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said the CIO understood "on very good information" that Lewis had amalgamated his union with the organization with which he split several years ago.

Lewis could do so merely by renewing his application. There had been no indication that he had more than a passing interest in such a move.

Simultaneously, the UAW announced that Frankenstein, defeated for mayor of Detroit in last week's election, would lead a drive for a thirty per cent wage increase, or its equivalent, in the aircraft industry.

The reported amalgamation, said Frankenstein, has the advantage of giving the AFL-UMW combination an extra vote over CIO at the national labor-management conference now entering its second week.

Frankenstein attended a meeting of the UAW executive board here, and later told reporters the aircraft industry, while badly shrunken, was in "better position than any other industry to raise wages."

This was true, Frankenstein said, because of what he termed the low basic wage with which airplane builders entered and emerged from the war and fast technical strides which permitted greater output per worker.

Frankenstein formerly was director of CIO-UAW's aircraft division, but this job was mainly an organizing one and has dwindled away.

Yugoslav Voters Endorse Tito's National Front

BELGRADE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Virtually complete returns showed tonight that Marshal Tito's National Front won a sweeping endorsement in Sunday's general elections, despite an appeal by opposition leaders for a boycott of the balloting.

National Front candidates for the constituent assembly, running without opposition, polled the heaviest vote ever recorded in Yugoslavia, partly because women were voting for the first time.

Incomplete returns showed that more than ninety per cent of the nation's 8,020,671 eligible voters had cast ballots.

Besides the suggested boycott, there was one other way in which the voters could express opposition to Tito's candidates—a special ballot box for those who did not approve any of the National Front candidates. This facility was provided under a last-minute amendment to the election law, so that all voters would have an opportunity to vote secretly, even if they wanted to vote against the National Front.

Although final returns had not been announced, there was no indication that the opposition vote was extensive.

Five Schoolboys Drown in Monongahela River

ELIZABETH, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Five teen-aged schoolboys, out chasing ducks, drowned today in the swirling waters of the Monongahela river at Lock 3 when their skiff upset. Three companions were saved.

Deputy George Thomas said the victims were Charles Lewis, 14; Bobby Baker, 12; Charles Williams, 16; William Harding, 16; and Merle Kettering, 12, all of West Elizabeth.

Firemen, hastily summoned from Elizabeth and West Elizabeth grappled in the swift currents of the river for the bodies.

Fire sirens blew at first reports of the drowning and weeping mothers, not knowing who the victims were, surrounded the river bank while others hurriedly rounded up their children.

Republicans Discount Anderson's Chances of Winning Farm Voters

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Republican senators from the farm states said confidently today that Secretary of Agriculture Anderson won't get anywhere in a campaign to win farm voters to the Democratic party.

A Democrat expressed belief Anderson's success would be measured by the stand he takes on pending farm legislation.

"They'll give him a very courteous reception—and continue to vote Republican," said Sen. Reed (R-Kan.). His comment, made to a newsman, was based on reports that Anderson is planning an extensive speaking tour in the Midwest and Northwest to find why farmers have increasingly been voting Republican.

with the decline in number of aircraft workers from 2,000,000 to an estimated 80,000.

The AFL International Association of Machinists, which has about half the country's aircraft workers, has accepted a fifteen per cent increase from Lockheed-Vega on the West coast, Frankenstein said, but he declared the UAW "won't settle for that—that just sabotages the purchasing power of the country."

The union will accept fifteen or twenty per cent increases in "open agreements," he stated however; in other words, in contracts subject to change if any nationwide wage policy emerges from the General Motors or other negotiations.

Wedge's attention was called to a statement by Lo Lung-Chi, member of the Liberal Democratic League, who quoted Chou En-Lai, No. 2 Communist in China, as saying the United States planned to equip seventy Chinese divisions.

Lo said Chou had confided this at Sunday's three-party (Nationalist, Communist and Democratic League) conference after having consulted Wedemeyer earlier in the day.

Wedemeyer said he did not discuss that subject with Chou, whom he had entertained at lunch.

Under a wartime lend-lease agreement, the United States had agreed to equip thirty-nine Chinese divisions to fight the Japanese. (This was the first mention of any seventy-division agreement.)

Twenty had been equipped at war's end, Wedemeyer was told a recent press conference that the United States would complete its contract to equip the remaining nineteen divisions.

Without confirmation elsewhere, a Communist spokesman declared that more Nationalist troops were streaming toward the Manchurian front in an attempt to deal a "serious blow" to the Communist troops entrenched there.

Manila Lawyer Tells How Japs Slew American

MANILA, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—A Japanese guard wantonly shot an unoffending American at Los Baños internment camp and left him to lie for four hours without aid before he was dragged out to his death, a witness testified today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Clyde DeWitt, well-known Manila lawyer, described the slaying of the American, George Lewis, last January 29, as the trial focused on events at the camp, just south of Manila.

Lewis was inside the fence when a guard shot him, DeWitt said. The intern was not killed and the Japanese camp commander, Maj. Iwanaka, was petitioned for medical aid.

Iwanaka replied, DeWitt said, that the guards had orders to "shoot until they kill" and there could be no intervention. After two hours Lewis was dragged outside the camp and shot through the forehead, DeWitt testified.

A weeping Chinese child and a badly scared Filipino motorist told how their families were butchered by the blood-crazed Japanese in the final days of Yamashita's Philippines rule.

Ten-year-old Ang Kim Ling sobbed his grief as he testified that Japanese tried to kill all the Chinese in Los Baños, Laguna province, a few days after American paratroopers and guerrillas staged a spectacular rescue of Allied internees from the nearby prison camp.

He himself was bayoneted, he said, and "went to sleep a little." When he recovered consciousness he was lying under a sheet of corrugated iron, with mangled bodies around him.

"I called for help," Ang Kim sobbed, "but nobody came."

Licleria Malveido, mother of four children, described the butchery of her race victims. He puffed a cigar and took no part in the proceedings.

Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.), addressing the company, said that "if no one will teach the British the meaning of honor the Jews will."

Jewish D-day will soon arrive in Palestine," the congressman asserted. "The Jews are prepared to make every sacrifice for their homeland."

"If it is to be bullet for bullet or bomb for bomb—so be it."

Before this country gives Britain the economic aid she seeks, Celler declared, Prime Minister Clement Attlee said he gave assurance "that they know the meaning of honor. Honor means the fulfillment of treaty obligations, especially in Palestine."

The Jews carried direct to Congress, the White House and the British embassy an appeal for a new Palestine plan centering on Jewish immigration.

Report That U. S. Will Lend China Money Is Denied

Nationalists Are Reported Assaulting Fortress City of Shanhaikwan

CHUNGKING, Nov. 12 (AP)—A spokesman for the United States embassy today denied as completely unfounded a report published in the Communist New China Daily News here Saturday that America had agreed to lend China $64,000,000 for purchase of American arms and ammunition.

The denial came as a Communist spokesman charged that Nationalist troops were assaulting the fortress city of Shanhaikwan, at the southern threshold of Manchuria.

Meantime, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, told correspondents that conversations on the possibility of increasing military aid to China were on a much higher level than he. Therefore, he stated, he could not say whether the United States would increase military aid, or how much or how little help would be granted.

No. 2 Red Is Quoted

Wedemeyer's attention was called to a statement by Lo Lung-Chi, member of the Liberal Democratic League, who quoted Chou En-Lai, No. 2 Communist in China, as saying the United States planned to equip seventy Chinese divisions.

Lo said Chou had confided this at Sunday's three-party (Nationalist, Communist and Democratic League) conference after having consulted Wedemeyer earlier in the day.

Singing Rabbis March to Capitol To Present Palestine Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A large company of bearded, black-clad Jewish rabbis, bursting into "The Star Spangled Banner," brought crowds outside busy Union station to a halt today.

Startled servicemen snapped to attention; hats popped off civilian heads. It was a prelude to forming ranks by a thousand Jews for a march to the nearby Capitol to present their Palestine program to congressmen.

Across the broad station plaza, the rabbis trudged four abreast, many with rolled black umbrellas. Some of the men were more than 85. The crowd sang as it plodded up the slope, chanting minor key Jewish songs.

On the Senate steps, where a group of legislators received the crowd, a score of cantors repeated the national anthem and religious songs.

A spectator on the Capitol steps was Sen. Bilbo (D-Miss.), who was widely known as "The Fighting Lady."

The commodore, who lived through ten major wounds in two wars and was hit sixty-five times by shrapnel in a single Pacific battle, died on a routine peacetime tour of 180 miles, a scheduled hour's journey.

The plane plunged into the rain and fog-shrouded mountain three miles northeast of here shortly after noon yesterday. The wreckage was not found until 3 a. m. today.

The commodore, 46, was commanding officer of the First naval district air bases and was stationed at the Quonset, R. I., naval air station. The doomed twin-engine plane was enroute from Caldwell, N. J., to Quonset.

The last word from the plane came when crewmen radioed Stewart Field at West Point, N. Y., about noon saying they were lost. Contact was broken while they talked and fifteen minutes later the plane crashed.

Navy Secretary Forrestal described Kiefer as "the indestructible man" in decorating him with the Distinguished Service Medal for his Pacific heroism.

Two hundred and forty marines and navy men from Quonset hacked their way 1,400 feet up the side of the heavily-wooded mountain this morning to find the battered body of the commodore lying face downward, with rain still beating down on it.

The commodore's splint-bound arm was stretched over a pile of soggy brown maple leaves. His arm had been in a cast since it was broken when Jap planes hit the Dufferin carrier "Blondin" during a battle off Formosa.

Warships, Planes Support British In Java Battle

Half of Soerabaja Is Wrested from Force of 120,000 Indonesians

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 12 (AP)—British troops, supported by fire from warships and by RAF planes, tonight wrested control of half of Soerabaja from an estimated 120,000 well-armed Indonesian Nationalists.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland reported from Soerabaja that the British, fighting from house-to-house, had occupied approximately the northern half of the big Dutch naval base after a fierce three-day battle.

Haugland said British destroyers shelled Indonesian positions, silencing 75 mm. guns which had been firing on the British-controlled Soerabaja airport. He said RAF planes bombed and strafed Indonesian headquarters in the Hotel Parangan.

The telephone building and post office were reported captured by the British, but the Dutch news agency Aneta, quoted the Nationalist governor of Soerabaja, Dr. Soerjo, as saying the Indonesians were "advancing" toward the postoffice in a counterattack.

Huge Fires Are Reported

Aneta said tank-supported British Indian troops ranged through the newly-won areas of the city to enforce a 10 a. m. curfew ordered during the day by British authorities.

The British said they saw no indication that the Indonesians were disposed to surrender or end the battle. Instead, they said the Nationalists were charging their lines in fanatical attacks.

Haugland said the British estimated they were opposed by 20,000 untrained Indonesian soldiers and 100,000 other armed natives.

The intense fighting was exacting a heavy toll.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said some women and children were killed when they were caught in the crossfire.

The agency also reported that houses and shops throughout the city were being looted and smashed as the Indonesians retreated. Furniture, crockery, clothing and rolls of cloth littered the streets. Hundreds of pairs of silk stockings from one warehouse were ripped and scattered.

Three Jap Generals Seized

The Dutch reported the British had gained control of most of the city.

Many Indonesians were killed when they hurried themselves at British tanks.

The British command said the type of Indonesian attacks and the use of weapons at the naval base "indicate strongly that the Japanese are guiding and helping the extremist Indonesians, although proof of (Continued on Page 12, Col. 5)

Pacific War Hero, Five Others Die In Airplane Crash

1945 Nobel Peace Prize Is Awarded To Cordell Hull

OSLO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Cordell Hull, former United States secretary of state, was awarded the 1945 Nobel prize today for the part he played in laying the foundation for the United Nations organization.

At the same time the five-man committee of the Norwegian parliament, which is voted annually by the Norwegian people, announced that the 1944 peace prize would go to the International Committee of the Red Cross at Geneva, Switzerland, for its work among prisoners of war.

This was the first time the prize had been awarded since 1938. Normally it is voted annually by the Nobel committee of the Norwegian Parliament to the person or persons "who shall have most or best promoted the fraternity of nations and the abolition or diminution of standing armies and the formation and extension of peace congresses."

While ill health forced Hull to resign as secretary of state before the United Nations Charter was adopted at San Francisco, he is often referred to as "father" of the peace organization because of his long efforts to bring the nations of the world together in a working unit to guard against future aggression.

Among the outstanding contributions he made toward this end was his 14,000-mile trip to Moscow in October, 1943, to discuss unity of the great powers in war and peace with former British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

The agreements reached at Moscow led to the first meeting of the Big Three at Tehran, to later meetings at Yalta and Potsdam, and to the Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco conferences.

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States prosecutor seeking "a live Krupp" in the court room, today asked that the son of the nearly dead Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach be substituted as a defendant in the war crimes trials.

Conceding that the granting of such a request would mean a delay of "a few days" in the opening of the trial scheduled for November 20, Jackson filed a motion with the international military tribunal asking that Alfred Krupp be tried in the place of his father.

Alfred took over active management of the huge Krupp steel and munitions empire in 1943, and later

Nation May Have More Food in '46 Than Ever Before

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Americans may have more to eat in 1946 than ever before in the nation's history.

So said the Agriculture department in a report today forecasting considerably larger supplies of most foods than were available this year.

If the department turns out to be right, per capita consumption would be more than eleven per cent above the prewar level of 1935-39.

But not all foods will be equally plentiful, the report stated. Supplies of pork, the better grades of beef and veal, fats and oils (particularly butter), sugar and canned fish are expected to be smaller than the amount consumers would buy at present prices.

Most of the improvement in the food supply will result, the department said, from a sharp cutback in military requirements.

The department said meat consumption per person next year is expected to reach 145 to 155 pounds, dressed weight. Consumption this year is expected to average about 130 pounds, although at the present time it is estimated to be at the annual rate of about 145 pounds.

More ice cream, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk, cream, canned vegetables, fresh and frozen fish will be available than in 1945, the report said. Eggs and fresh fruit are expected to continue plentiful, while consumption of chicken, turkey, fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen and dried fruits, potatoes, sweet potatoes, and cereal products are expected to average substantially the same as this year.

The Rev. G. S. Schwind To Address the Guild

Discussing the "Church's Future in the Philippines," the Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, curate, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Guild of Emmanuel Episcopal church, today.

Sewing will begin at 10:30 o'clock; at noon a "bring and buy sale" will be held, followed by luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. The regular business session will be held at 2 o'clock with Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes presiding.

Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Gives Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to cold.

And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a long time.

You can feel this simple home mixture take right hold of a cough. It soothes the phlegm, soothes the throat, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of cough medicine, and is concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Where New Blood May Do Some Good

THE POSTWAR NAVY will benefit if Congress approves some such plan for recruiting and educating naval officers as the one that has been recommended by the Holloway board. At the very least it will offer a more attractive career for ambitious young men than in the past and therefore the quality of its officer personnel will show improvement.

Under the proposed system, the navy would draw not more than half of its officers from the naval academy. The rest would come from colleges with naval ROTC courses and from accredited institutions whose graduates would be commissioned and then sent to orientation school. The purpose would be to balance the Annapolis men against the non-Annapolis men and thus achieve equality of opportunity for all.

Perhaps some savings are justified under the plan the academy would provide fifty per cent of the navy's officers and the Annapolis tradition is strong. The group might be too cohesive and clanlike and the result would be friction. Yet it is obviously the intention to prevent this very thing and it is reasonable to believe that the constant infusion of new blood would have the desired effect.

At any rate, it is known that in the past the predominance of Annapolis graduates in the navy has led to consequences not felt to the same degree in the army, which has drawn a much smaller percentage of its officers from West Point. The navy plan is not a new experiment because it has already proved its worth in the companion service.

It would mean not only improved morale in the navy but also less rigidity of thinking, more hospitality toward new ideas and generally greater adaptability to change.

The Avalanche Of Strike Votes

IT IS DISCONCERTING to read of the avalanche of strike vote requests being filed under provisions of the Smith-Connally Labor Disputes act.

Included among the new ones filed are those for 370,000 employees of the Westinghouse and General Electric companies and the electrical division of General Motors. While the National Labor Relations board reports that new applications are pouring in at the rate of forty-five a day.

The, however, is the report for only four of its twenty field offices which four received a record-breaking 666 petitions in October and entered this month with a backlog of 654 cases. At least half the sixteen others were reported as devoting themselves mainly to strike-vote activity, while reconviction questions arising under the Wagner act are shelved.

The strike-vote procedure is proving a costly arrangement. In the automobile industry alone $100,000 of federal funds was spent last month in handling strike ballots growing out of the demand for a thirty per cent wage increase.

The strike-vote procedure is not only costly for the taxpayers but it doesn't seem to do much good, despite the thirty day "cooling off" period, on which so much hope had been held.

Repeal of that provision of the act, consequently, seems to be a necessity. But more than that needs to be done; and unless something can be worked out satisfactorily at a labor-management conference, it is likely to be done relatively. If industry is stalled for any great length of time in this critical reconviction period through work stoppages, the country will run into a depression, and if it comes into it will be about the worst it has ever suffered.

Russian Censorship Seems To Be Lifted

THAT is interesting news which has been sent to this country by Rembert James, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, indicating that Soviet censorship of outgoing news dispatches has been lifted.

There has been no official announcement, however, that the censorship has been lifted, James reports, and foreign correspondents still are submitting stories as previously for stamping by censors. But all Associated Press dispatches filed since November 7 have been passed without any deletions, and the censorship process on political commentaries and similar stories—which often in the past have been held up for several hours—has been expedited. Other correspondents report similar experiences.

This marks the first change since the Nazis invaded the Soviet Union—and Soviet censorship was established—so that correspondents have been able to feel their stories would go through without deletions and delay.

James reports significantly that at Molotov's reception in connection with the celebration of the Red Revolution anniversary, Molotov proposed a toast to Eddie Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent. "You know correspondents do not like Soviet censorship," Molotov said. "You want to wipe it out."

"Well, sir, you read our letter and telegram," Gilmore said, referring to protests recently made by the Anglo-American correspondents' association of Moscow on the subject. "What would you say?" Molotov asked. "If I told you I would agree to reciprocity?" and Gilmore replied that he thought it would be "a very fine thing."

Molotov beamed and said, "Let us drink a toast then." Gilmore chose vodka instead of wine and Molotov smiled, saying, "That's a real Russian toast." Then they drank to a "better understanding of our countries." Molotov emptied his glass and held it upside down over his head, smiled again and passed on. A few minutes later, a high-ranking foreign diplomat who had witnessed the toast approached Gilmore and said, "I think you have got citizenship lifted."

It is to be hoped that such is the case as no more important development could come toward a better understanding between Russia and the United States, which the situation has long demanded.

Tire News Again Is Not So Good

TIRES were among the first of this country's domestic worries at the outbreak of war. They now seem destined to be among the last of its worries to be solved by the return to peace. The end of civilian tire rationing, first scheduled for late December, is again in doubt. The number of unfilled applications held by ration boards has nearly doubled, from 517,000 on July 31 to more than 900,000.

The tire industry, with a thirty-six hour week imposed by unions which now demand a reduction to thirty hours and production curtailed during these short hours by slow-downs, produced only 2,800,000 tires in October. This rate of production, allowing for tires needed for new cars by the automobile industry, would provide one new tire for each car in the United States during all of 1946.

With winter so near at hand, this is disappointing news. Many more months of driving on antiquated tires is an unpleasant prospect. But the coming season may provide its own partial solution to the prospect. Many motorists who took to the road with the end of gasoline rationing will do less driving after cold weather sets in, and tires wear out less rapidly in winter. If the tire industry, harassed by labor agitation, can double production, tires will become available in time to all those who need them. But this will never be accomplished on an output of less than 5,000,000 tires a month.

In the meantime, there is more urgent need than ever for safe and careful driving. That is essential not only to save rubber but to save lives.

Wanton Destruction Of Superfortresses

SOME of the scrapping of surplus military material can be easily understood, but one case reported from Wichita, Kan., cannot.

According to a dispatch from that city, the federal government burned up $9,000,000 worth of property in destroying sixteen new B-29 Superfortresses. There was some small salvage, the metal being consigned to the junk heap.

According to Maj. E. T. Cuttyback, military official at the Boeing plant, "surplus items and material of little value always are destroyed in aircraft plants after government contracts are terminated."

If that is the rule, it ought to be revised. It seems a poor excuse for destroying sixteen brand new airplanes worth nearly ten million dollars when they might be used for some purposes or other, such as flying troops back home, or for civilian transport.

Boeing officials and army officers are reported to have tried in vain to get an order revoking the demolition. But government red tape seems to have won out.

This seems to be a rather shabby way to treat the taxpayers' money.

Senator Tydings has aimed his recommendation to the right parties when he says the United States, Great Britain and Russia should work out a solution for atomic bomb control and world peace.

It reads like the football season is being played in a zoo when we see such headlines as "Rams Beat Bears," "Eagles Trounce Lions" and "Wildcats Tangle with Panthers."

Third-rate powers, using atomic bombs, could conquer the world, it is argued. Not as long as the bomb remains the secret of the first-rate power.

Corn likker, we read, can be used as fuel for some jet-propelled planes. But that's nothing new—many a high flyer has gone places on the same stuff.

The citizen who came through shoe rationing with an unused stamp at least can credit himself with a moral victory.

BEAUTIFUL MEMORIALS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

One of the most beautiful and unusual memorials ever to come to my attention, and to the attention of millions of people throughout America, and even many foreign lands, is the one initiated by Mrs. Albert D. Lasker of Chicago, wife of the noted advertising executive.

This memorial, embodied in over 2,000,000 chrysanthemums scattered and planted in over 200 communities, is to Mrs. Lasker's mother, but in a larger sense it is to become a memorial to millions of others whose lives have been devoted to the happiness of many.

The unusual feature of these plantings is that the flowers were developed at the University of Chicago by Dr. E. J. Kraus, and are frost-resistant, which will carry them in much of the northern latitude into Armistice Day, and some even into Thanksgiving Day. Central Park in New York City is now a riot of beauty in many of its parts because of this unique memorial from the generous heart of one woman. There is a planting even in the home town of General MacArthur, at Little Rock, Arkansas, in the grounds of 40 veteran hospitals, and fifty college campuses, as well as in many a private garden.

What a wonderful idea! What a contrast to cold bronze or marble. Flowers have a silent voice. In this memorial of Mrs. Lasker's, it is whispering around the world. May this idea be taken up by many others. Nothing is quite so close to the voice of the great Creator as a flower!

I was greatly impressed when I read, many years ago, of a large field, somewhere in England, being devoted to the planting of daffodils, in memory of the poet Wordsworth, who devoted so much of his life to the beauties of nature.

Flowers have such an endless interest. Miraculously formed in themselves, theirs is a universal appeal. They are loved by everyone. They are the friend of the heart, and re-enforce one's faith in God, for who can disbelieve who has ever felt the soul of a flower?

BARKING UP THE WRONG TREE

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Secretary Byrnes Breaks Long-Standing Custom of Giving News for the People

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—For twenty long years, ever since Charles Evans Hughes was secretary of state, it has been traditional that the heads of the State department meet the press five or six times a week. Hughes inaugurated this policy after a long period of hush-hush diplomacy when Woodrow Wilson was ill and his foreign policy was marking time.

Frank B. Kellogg, who followed Hughes during the Coolidge Administration, continued the practice religiously. At times Kellogg was badgered on such subjects as sending the marines to Nicaragua and his bellicose notes to Mexico. However, he took the pummeling with good spirit, eventually recovered his equilibrium, and used his press conferences effectively when it came to marshaling public opinion for his treaty to outlaw war.

Henry L. Stimson, the next secretary of state, was also punctiliously careful to hold press conferences five or six times a week. Stimson, too, staged rough-and-tumble debates with the press, but sometimes remarked that in the end he got more out of press conferences than newsmen because it gave him a barometer of what the public was thinking.

Cordell Hull, who followed Stimson, also continued the tradition of regular press conferences. Hull, it is true, was ill for long periods, but during his absence conferences were held regularly by the acting secretary of state, Sumner Welles, or Acting Secretary Ed Stettinius. The latter, when he became secretary of state, leaned over backward never to skip a press conference.

Byrnes Shuns Press

Today, however, it is different. Jimmy Byrnes, who passionately loves the phrase "Freedom of the Press," simply hates press conferences. His aides almost have to drag him to get him into the diplomatic reception room where for twenty years secretaries of state have faced the friendly cross-fire of newsmen.

Byrnes, at first, excused himself on the ground that he was too busy learning American foreign affairs, so he cut down press conferences from five or six to one a week. Following this, he ordered newsmen to be seated instead of standing around the large conference table. He refuses some newsmen to use the same seat each week. This is the first time in history that such regimentation has been required. The idea is that Byrnes can then spot, according to the location of their chairs, the identity of the men who quiz him.

Last week, Secretary of State Byrnes, looking grim and petulant, finally saw the press. It was not a meeting conducive to informing the American public at a time when the American people probably need information on foreign affairs more than ever before.

When one reporter asked why the American position regarding the Dardanelles had not been given out three or four days before, when erroneous reports regarding that meeting were circulating, Byrnes replied, "I did not hear of it."

"You have no right to inquire about the American position. I will tell you what I want you to know when I want you to know it."

Tire Rationing

If you are an automobile owner in search of tires, here is one thing to keep your eye on. The tire industry is pulling all sorts of wires backstage to lift export restrictions.

At present they are permitted to export 400,000 truck tires and 100,000 passenger tires during the last quarter of this year. They would like to export a lot more. In the first place, they don't have to worry about OPA ceiling prices when selling abroad. Secondly, they can bulge their pocketbooks by getting in on the ground floor.

So they would rather sell more tires abroad. But if they do, they sell less tires at home. And today a tire certificate issued to a person desiring to buy a tire is nothing more than a hunting license. He can go out and hunt for a tire. If he's lucky enough to find one, his certificate entitles him to buy it.

Department of Peace

When the House Foreign Affairs committee heard testimony on the Randolph bill to create a department of Peace, the star witness was a 64-year-old former mule-driver from Morgantown, W. Va.

Chairman Sol Bloom and members of his committee listened with rapt attention as Raymond M. Davis read a sixteen page statement on why the United States should take the lead in establishing a new cabinet post to spread the gospel of peace throughout the world.

After he finished, white-throated GOP Representative Charles Eaton of New Jersey, declared: "Mr. Davis, you may be unschooled, as you tell the committee, but you certainly are not uneducated. That is one of the finest documents I have ever listened to."

World peace is not just a hobby with the West Virginia coal miner, though he describes it as such. It is a burning ideal. A self-made business man who now operates two coal mines employing more than 500 workers, Davis has made many speeches at his own expense throughout the country urging a government department of Peace. He also has written a proposed constitution for the United Nations that has attracted wide attention.

The State department thought well enough of his ideas to invite him to the San Francisco conference as an observer.

Representative Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, freely admits that Davis was the chief spark-plug behind his peace resolution.

"When I was looking at the map of the world, I saw a single dot in West Virginia coal mines," says Davis. "I never thought that one day I'd be instrumental in having such an important piece of legislation introduced in Congress."

Note—The second initial of Davis's name stands for "Moses." Perhaps what we need are more plain, garden-variety Moseses of the Davis type. Instead of striped-panthe diplomats, to lead us out of the international wilderness.

Capital Chaff

Wednesday was really Radio day at the U. S. Senate, with special precautions taken because President Truman was on hand to dedicate the new enlarged Senate Radio Gallery. Capitol police got so security conscious that they barred Secretary of Labor Lew Schwelb and Federal Communications Commission something normal, hitherto called peacetime.

Big Publicity Pressure

Ever since V-E day there has been a frantic reaching for publicity, with incessant pressure on the public and on Congress. The big parades of generals and admirals, for instance, were spontaneous celebrations so far as the observing people were concerned but behind these events were the big publicity machines of the armed services. The purpose—other than to extend deserved recognition for a job well done—was considered legitimate, too, namely to build up the prestige of the generals and admirals so that the names of the military spokesmen would be big enough to impress Congress and the country when they talked to the legislators and the press.

The army air forces have been most energetic in presenting their case in pamphlets and booklets and reports with four-colored printing and fancy maps and drawings, all calculated to prove, perhaps that while the infantry and artillery or even the navy incidentally had something to do with the war, it was really won by the army air forces in Europe and also in the Pacific.

Much One-Sided

If one looks through these supposedly impartial surveys of how we won the war, he finds perhaps a few sentences devoted to the other armed services and 99.9 per cent of the wordage devoted to a boast of how that particular service won the war.

The publicity campaign isn't intended to glorify any one individual. It isn't really personal. As a matter of fact, these military men back of the drive sincerely believe they must get Congress to continue appropriating billions so as to have the country from the horrors of another war in which America may be caught unprepared. They pay lip service to the United Nations charter because that's tactful. They speak contemptuously of the atomic bomb as not having won the war. If the air forces had been allowed to do it, says Maj. De Seversky—one of their spokesmen—abroad by Secretary Patterson to conduct surveys on what air bombing did—why the army air, of course, could have won the Japanese war without the atomic bomb.

All this irks the navy men, who think they really had something to do with winning the big bases from which the army air forces flew their planes, including the two planes with the atomic bombs in them. There are some cemeteries with white crosses on Tarawa, Saipan, Guam, Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal, New Guinea and the Philippines where lie the ground troops of the army and the marine corps who paid with their lives to capture objectives needed by the army air forces.

Mentioned Phases Obscured

Today publicity drives are being concentrated on the idea of a single department of national defense. The army and the navy air forces want it. The navy does not. As a matter of fact, there is merit in some phases of the proposal but this has been obscured to a large extent by a suspicion voiced in Navy department circles that the whole thing is just a scheme to give the De Seversky school of thought complete control of strategy and planning and that it means the scrapping of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers and the reliance of the United States on the army air forces to dominate the single department of defense.

Anybody who goes to the Navy department talks five minutes on this subject with officials here and there can feel the hostility and suspicion, and also hear expressed a sincere fear that far from improving our defense set-up we shall wreck it by disunity and disregard for the specialization of the navy and marine corps.

Haste Is Questioned

But the innocent observer will wonder: What's the hurry? Is another war imminent? The War department spokesmen insist on immediate action and accuse the navy of wanting to delay decision. It's hurry, hurry, hurry, as if the danger were next week or next year. Surely Secretary Byrnes, of the department of State, hasn't indicated that we are on the verge of another world conflict. As for the boys still in the Pacific and in Europe, they want to come home to a peaceful America.

Is the slowness of demobilization due to the preoccupation of some of our military leaders with programs for defense to fight imminent wars, or is the military panic in Washington just a case of postwar jitters about dissolution of commands and military facilities due to the belief of Congress that maybe the American people want the spending to stop soon and some kind of economy practiced once more? It's a puzzle.

Double Formula On Wages, Prices Is Held Difficult

By MARK SULLIVAN

The wage situation, and the policy of the Truman administration about it, ramifies into every phase of reversion. So far as it can be reduced to simplicity, the basic factors are:

During war, there is always a rise—in wages, in prices of food from farms, in prices of goods generally.

Following war, there is a corrective drop, which should be comparatively brief. This should be followed, after a year or so, by a period of prosperity, attended by rises. The distinction between the two phases—a drop immediately following war, and a rise later—should be kept in mind.

An immediate drop following war is expected, and ought not to cause either bitterness or alarm. During the recent war, workers generally did not expect their abnormally high wartime wages would continue. Manufacturers did not expect that the high prices they received during war, due to scarcity, would continue. Farmers generally did not expect that the wartime prices they received for crops would continue; they knew that the abnormal wartime demand for food would be reduced as soon as warring countries could resume production for food. (Though after World War I, farmers forgot, and their forgetting led to a boom in prices of farm land, which was a large factor in the disaster of the 1920's.)

Portentous Decision

Facing the double prospect—an immediate drop and a later rise—the Truman administration made a portentous decision; and this is the cause of what is going on. The decision was, in effect, to skip the immediate postwar drop, as respects wages.

This decision of the administration conformed to, and almost certainly was influenced by, a prior decision by labor leaders. These were flatly determined to maintain the wartime level of wages. They put their determination in just that form. They demanded that the total wages received by a worker during the war should continue to be received by him after the war. This demand was the more extreme in that it conceded that the number of hours worked would be fewer. Demands in wage controversies put in so many words, fifty-two hours pay for forty hours work. This meant that the wage-rate per hour should actually be increased some thirty per cent above the wartime rate.

Labor Demand Encouraged

The demand of labor leaders for a thirty per cent increase was not directly or fully endorsed by President Truman. His utterances and decisions in this field, since including his formal announcement of postwar economic policy August 18, have not been wholly consistent, and the inconsistency has itself been a confusing factor in the situation. However, the net of the president's

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Now I see where Winston Churchill has been offered a pound a word to write a newspaper column. Well, that seems fair. That's about what I lose writing this stuff.

Of course, he'll be able to give us the inside on a lot of things. Why, he might even know when Mervyn LeRoy is going to start making "The Robe." Or maybe he'll just tell his diary like everyone else. I understand now that peace is final, even Hirohito is offering his memoirs. They're called, "Life on White Horse" and dedicated to W. C. Fields.

The offer to write must have pleased Churchill, though. It is quite a thrill to be his age and still find people clamoring to listen to him, isn't it, Mr. Crosby?

Churchill's comments would start a trend. Any day now I expect to turn on the radio and hear the King of Sweden say, "Smorgasbord, there's a good news tonight!"

utterances and actions, especially when taken in connection with the attitudes of some in his administration, including particularly Secretary of Commerce Wallace, has been to encourage the demands of the labor leaders.

Had the administration not intervened, had the wage issue been left to bargaining between labor leaders and employers, and the influence of public opinion on both, it might have been worked out to a reasonable compromise. In many cases, labor leaders themselves did not expect all that they demanded, and put their demands high for bargaining purposes. And many employers were willing to grant some increase, several actually did.

Normally, the wage-rates arrived at by bargaining, and an accompanying equilibrium of wages and prices, become the solid basis for the ensuing period of prosperity. To arrive at this new equilibrium is the natural and corrective result of the labor market by the immediate post-war drop and pause.

Difficult Problem

The administration attempts, in effect, to skip the postwar drop as respects wages, and thus cause the ensuing period of prosperity and rise to start from a new and high level of wages. That this would lead toward increase in cost of living, and inflation, the administration realizes. So it adopts an accompanying policy that, with few exceptions, there shall be no rise in prices of goods. The double administration formula becomes, increases in wages but no increases in prices of goods.

To enforce this double formula requires control of prices by government, and presents a difficult problem. It is a novel experiment. During the war, there was restraint of price rises, but also restraint of wage rises. How the new formula may work will appear during the next few months.

Three Divorce Suits Are Filed Here

William W. Cook, Cumberland, a petty officer in the United States Merchant Marine service, has filed suit for divorce in circuit court against Helene Lada (Cook) charging that his bride was already married when she consented to marry him. He has asked to have his marriage annulled.

According to his attorney, Morgan C. Harris, the couple were married last February 7 in New York City. Cook left port on March 7 and was gone for eight months. When he returned to New York, Cook said he discovered that his wife was already married to a Lewis Hines and was not divorced when she went through the ceremony with him last February. After finding out about her previous marriage, he did not live with her, Cook said.

Mrs. Rosa Alice Holly Chapman, Cumberland, has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Albert Chapman, now serving in the navy, and also asks for the custody of their daughter. Her counsel, Edward J. Ryan, said they were married February 19, 1943, and lived together until May 1, 1944. On an answer, the sailor agreed to have her given custody of the child and promised to pay $30 a month for the girl's support.

Douglas S. May filed suit for a divorce from Mrs. Edna L. May on undisclosed grounds. Earl E. Manges is his attorney with William A. Gunter representing the wife. It is the first suit docketed by Manges since he was admitted to the bar here last week.

After the harvest... what?

Back in America's infancy, in 1621, Governor Bradford proclaimed a day of thanksgiving and prayer after the New England colonists brought in their first harvest. Gradually, over the years, it became a national custom to set aside one day of thanksgiving annually after the harvest. After the harvest!

What a harvest we celebrate in this year of our Lord, 1945! Not alone our bounteous harvest of crops. Not alone our magnificent harvest of military victory. But Peace—Glorious Peace—that's our harvest of '45! After the harvest... what?

A Day of Thanksgiving—from the depths of our souls!

Then we must finish paying for the weapons which did so much to bring us Victory. We must bring our boys and girls back home with all possible speed. We must heal our wounded and disabled—regardless of the cost. We must help every serviceman return to civilian life again.

That's the "Why" of this Victory Loan!

That's why General MacArthur radioed from the battleship Missouri: "They are homeward bound—take care of them!"

That's why the New York Stock Exchange says: Buy Victory Bonds. Don't let anyone talk you into cashing them. That goes for all of your War Bonds. Beware of all "get-rich-quick" schemes. Unscrupulous promoters are looking for victims now—as they were after World War I.

Yes, buy all the Victory Bonds you can—and hold them! These Bonds offer a variety of features meeting virtually every investment requirement. For the average person, the Series 'E' Bond is "tailor-made."

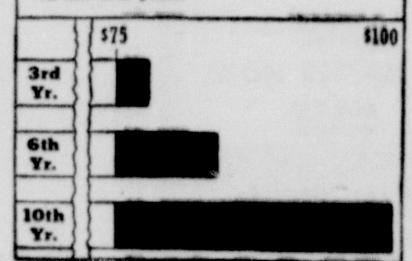

When you invest in Series 'E' Victory Bonds, you'll get your money back—plus an extra dollar for every three you lend! That's the investment proposition to you—direct from the U. S. Government. It's the world's safest investment.

All Series 'E' Bonds offer you the same yield, same maturity, and the same safety.

Seventy per cent of this Exchange's net current assets are in U. S. Government Bonds. The Bonds of our Government are the only securities we have ever recommended in the 153 years of our existence.

Invest in Victory Bonds. Invest in Peace—instead of War!

Series 'E' Victory Bonds pay off best when you hold them for the long haul. To cash them prior to maturity is to cheat yourself! See chart below. Black portions show increase in value over original investment at end of third, sixth, ninth, and twelfth years. Note greater increase in second three years... and even greater increase in last four years.

A silver belt tournament for amateur boxers will be conducted under the auspices of the Allegheny Athletic Association, Monday and Tuesday, December 10 and 11, in SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium. It was announced last night by Bobby Shroul, matchmaker for the new organization.

The tournament will be similar to the one conducted by the Cumberland Boys' Club in 1936, at which time Shroul served as promoter and matchmaker of one of the best amateur mitt carnivals ever presented in Cumberland.

Champions crowned in the eight weight classes, namely, 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight, in both the open and novice divisions of the tourney, will be presented silver belt buckles suitably engraved while the runners-up in each class will receive Glo-Ray loving cups.

Team Trophies Offered
A large trophy is being offered to the boxing teams scoring the greatest number of points on the two nights while the runner-up team will be the recipient of a trophy. Teams throughout the tri-state area are invited to enter.

To the boy who is voted the "outstanding prospect" will go a Glo-Ray or gold finish trophy nineteen inches in height.

Amateurs with three bouts or less must compete in the novice division while those who have engaged in more than three matches will be eligible to compete in the open competition.

Champions will receive five points and runners-up three points in the race for the team trophy.

New Ring Being Built
Matchmaker Shroul announced that a new ring is being built for the tournament and other shows to be sponsored by the A. A. A. and a public address system will be installed at the Fayette street gymnasium. Other new equipment such as boxing gloves, lights, buckets, stools, ring canvas, etc., is being purchased by the organization.

Efforts will be made to have the preliminary bouts out of the way on opening night with the semi-finals and finals scheduled on the second night.

Matchmaker Shroul has had wide experience as a boxer, promoter and matchmaker and will be ably assisted by a staff of sportsmen and former boxers in the promotion of shows here. Bobby promoted the Silver Belt and Golden Gloves tournaments in which boys from the Tri-Towns, Frostburg, Hyndman, Cresaptown, Cumberland and Keyser participated. Ray Landis, of Green Spring, winner of the 135-pound novice title, later graduated into a top ranking lightweight in the professional ranks. Shroul served as matchmaker for the Central YMCA tourney, promoted a show at Crystal Park and assisted as matchmaker in a show at Condale, Pa. He is a brother of K. O. Shroul, the local heavyweight boxer, now serving with the combat engineers in the Philippine Islands. Before joining the armed forces Kayo stopped such well known boxers as Charley Brant, Van Meter and "Red" Bush.

Tickets Good Both Nights
Tickets for the tournament are now being printed and will be good for both nights.

Entry blanks will be ready for distribution shortly and those interested in entering the show are requested to write Matchmaker Bobby Shroul, 324 Waverly terrace, Cumberland, Md.

Trophies will be displayed in the window of a Baltimore street store, Shroul said.

Post Time at Pimlico Is Changed to 12:30 p. m.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—General Manager Matt L. Daiger of the Maryland Jockey Club announced today that effective Wednesday the post time for the 12:30 p. m. race at Pimlico would be 12:30 p. m., instead of 1 p. m.

He said that early darkness had forced the change and that it was necessary to move the card up so that the last race could be completed before darkness set in.

GLENN DAVIS STREAKS FOR ARMY TOUCHDOWN

ON HIS WAY TO A TOUCHDOWN, Glenn Davis (41), of Army, makes a fast break for the goal line after receiving a short pass in the second quarter. Stuff-arming Phil Colella (29), Davis evades "the man in the iron mask," Frank Ruggerio (40, right), to score for the Cadets. Ruggerio played in a mask to protect the thirteen stitches that had been taken in his chin after the Navy game. Army ran roughshod over strong but hopelessly overpowered Notre Dame to take the game, 48-0, at New York's Yankee stadium.

Minisi Is Rated One of Smartest "Pinch" Players

Navy Star's Performances against Top-Flight Foes Stand Out

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Tony Minisi may not make the All-America football team but Navy's sure-fire southpaw stands out as one of the year's smartest pinch players.

In Navy's last three games against top-flight opponents, Minisi:

Beat Penn on a brilliant catch of a forward pass in the last twenty-five seconds.

Saved the 6-8 struggle with Notre Dame by making a timely tackle on the one-foot line in the dying seconds.

Set a match to Navy's long-dormant attack as it came to life in Saturday's 33-7 victory over Michigan.

Commander Oscar Hagberg, Navy's head coach, today gave Minisi full credit for being an exceptional "pinch player" and a "naturally heavy competitor."

Hagberg was asked specifically by a reporter if Minisi's shoulder-high tackle of Notre Dame's Phil Colella was by accident or design.

"Minisi naturally tackles high," Hagberg said, "but I'm sure that he was conscious of the nearness of the goal line and purposely wrestled Colella out of bounds."

He might have added that not many college players would have had the forethought and skill to handle that situation as Minisi did. Minisi's winning catch against Penn on the dead run deep into a corner of the end zone also was far removed from the ordinary. It was a fielding masterpiece of the type that Tris Speaker made at the height of his baseball career.

Against Michigan, Minisi started Navy off on its most impressive offensive work by expertly faking a run to the left, suddenly wheeling and throwing a lefthanded pass diagonally into the waiting arms of Leon Bramlett for the first touchdown.

He also did some of the day's best running. In one series, he personally accounted for thirty-five yards in four plays. Later, he scored thirteen yards on the Statue of Liberty play for the third Middle touchdown that actually broke up the ball game.

The Davises, Blanchards, Gilmer, Fenimore and Wedemeyers are out ahead of Minisi in the race for All-America, but this 5-foot-11, 185-pounder from Newark, N. J., is doing all right for an Annapolis plebe.

American Loop Hangs Up New Attendance Mark

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American league last season played before the largest paid attendance in its 45-year history, a total of 5,880,426 cash customers.

President Will Harridge today released figures which showed the 1945 American league race which made up in sizzling competition what it lacked in individual talent attracted almost 150,000 more fans than the previous record attendance of 5,433,791 in 1940.

The Detroit Tigers, pennant and world series winners, topped the million mark in home attendance with an all-time record for that city of 1,280,341. The total nearly reached the league's single club record of 1,289,422, established by the New York Yankees in 1920.

The eight-club total of 5,880,426 exceeded the previous season's mark of 4,790,158 by 782,262 and was 146,629 more than the 1940 record attendance.

Simmons Drop Kicks Nine Extra Points As Elkins Wins, 69-0

ELKINS, W. Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—Gene Simmons, stocky little high school halfback, drop kicked nine consecutive extra points today to run his season's record for booting them through the goal posts to 36 out of 41 tries.

The 17-year-old junior also scored three of the ten touchdowns as Elkins high ended a nine-game campaign undefeated with a 69 to 0 walloping of Philippi high. Simmons, on his tenth attempted conversion failed.

Coach Robert (Red) Brown said his 145-pound kicking specialist was "phenomenal at the last art." Simmons drop kicked on kickoffs and Brown declared "he can lay on the five yard line every time."

Botulism Causes Death of Ducks, Vaughn Announces

Disease Threatens Oysters with Annihilation on Chesapeake

SALISBURY, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—A number of sick ducks, fished from the Chesapeake bay, has been delivered to the state research laboratory at Patuxent for observation as autopsies were performed on other birds, State Game Warden Ernest A. Vaughn announced today.

The autopsies indicated that the ducks had died of botulism, a type of food poisoning, Vaughn said. Meanwhile W. Allan Dawson, president of the Mayo Waterman's League, declared an undetermined disease was threatening Maryland's bay oysters with annihilation and killing large numbers of geese, sea gulls, and wild ducks.

The Anne Arundel county sportsman said he has asked Senator Tydings (D-Md.) to see an investigation by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

He suggested the disease might be a malady hitherto unknown.

"The situation is becoming more serious day by day," Dawson informed Tydings. "The malady, which seems to be gradually spreading southward, by the ebb and flow of the tide, bids fair to wipe out the oyster industry entirely."

He added that the disease had reached the mouth of Herring bay and crept into the Chester river. Oystermen in that area, the sportsman related already had "given up and gone ashore again."

SAYS REPORT UNFOUNDED

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Edwin Warfield, Jr., chairman of the Commission of Tidewater Fisheries, declared tonight that reports of widespread disease in Maryland's Chesapeake Bay oysters were unfounded.

He said there was no general mortality apparent among oysters in the bay, and attributed the poor quality in certain areas to low salinity.

Eagles Refuse To Shift Site For Grid Game

Will Play Redskins Nov. 25 at Shibe Park and Not in Stadium

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National football league said tonight they have rejected a demand by Owner George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins that the Philadelphia-Washington game scheduled November 25 be shifted from Shibe park to gigantic Municipal stadium.

Washington currently is leading the league's eastern division, with the Eagles in second place. Should each team win its remaining games against other opponents, a Philadelphia victory over the Redskins would necessitate a post-season playoff for the Eastern title and the right to meet the Western division champions.

All of the 27,000 reserved seats at Shibe park already have been sold for the game, and an overflow crowd of 35,000 is almost a certainty regardless of weather. Municipal stadium, where the Army-Navy game will be played Dec. 1, can seat 103,000.

"Sure, we could sell 15,000, maybe 20,000 more seats at the stadium," said Army Capt. Alexis Thompson, owner of the Eagles "but if we moved this game it wouldn't be fair to the season ticketholders and the loyal fans who have supported the Eagles over the past five seasons."

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Unbeaten St. Mary's Gaels defeated the Fresno State Bulldogs, 32-6, before a huge holiday crowd today after an unimpressive start. Coach Jimmy Phelan started his second stringers and the Gaels led at half-time only 6-0.

The stadium was packed with a record crowd of 16,000 as Phelan started his second string, held scoreless by the Bulldogs in the first period. The regulars drove fifty yards on eight plays to score. Herman Wedemeyer rambled over from the 19-yard line after a lateral pass.

The St. Mary's regulars were kept in the game for the third period and half of the fourth. They went sixty-three yards on four plays in the third period for their second touchdown. Spike Cordeiro shook loose through right tackle from the seven to score. Wedemeyer kicked the extra point.

Negro Leaders Charge Rickey with "Piracy" In Signing Robinson

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Negro National and American leagues disclosed today they had filed an official protest with Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler on the signing of Jackie Robinson, a member of the Kansas City Monarchs, by Brooklyn President Branch Rickey for the Dodgers' Montreal farm in the International league.

In a letter addressed to Chandler, the two Negro leagues, following a joint meeting here last Friday, said they wished it understood they were glad to see Negro players get the opportunity to play in white organized baseball, but were protesting the "way it was done."

Charging Rickey with "piracy," Dr. J. B. Martin, president of the Negro American league, and T. Wilson, National league proxy, insisted that Robinson had made a verbal agreement to play with the Monarchs in 1946, but was lured away by the Dodgers' boss.

Rickey was not immediately available for comment.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Jockey Joe Renick today was suspended for ten days for the stewards' effective Wednesday, for crossing over and impeding Cargo Ship and Free Dutch going into the first turn in the fourth race. Renick's mount, High Tint, finished second but was disqualified.

21,922 Fans See Lord Boswell Cop Pimlico Feature

Victory in Endurance 'Cap Brings Mrs. Graham $10,800 Purse

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Lord Boswell, one of the nuggets in the Maine Chance Farm equine gold mine, had speed to spare today as he romped home a three and a half lengths victor in the twenty-third running of the Endurance handicap, one of the major tests for two year olds at the Pimlico fall meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham and her new trainer, Roy Waldron, were among the Armistice day holiday crowd of 21,922 that watched through a low overcast as the speedy son of Boswell-Pantine caught Hal Price, Headley's Little Nip coming into the home stretch to score with little effort.

John March's Mighty Stormy closed fast to finish second, a half length before Little Nip, which led all the way until Doug Dodson sent the favored Lord Boswell in front at the final bend. Billy Bumps, which challenged with Little Nip and Lord Boswell, at the home turn, was fourth, a half length behind Little Nip.

Nine juveniles competed in this one mile and seventy yards test and Lord Boswell was the only horse on the track not eligible for the next two big $25,000 added juvenile affairs here, the Pimlico Futurity and the Walden stakes.

As it was, he picked up $10,800 for Mrs. Graham, owner of this year's number one stable, making Lord Boswell's total earnings for the year $34,330.

Lord Boswell traveled the distance in the good time of 1:43 4-5 over a fast track, and paid $3.20, $2.50 and $2.30. The winner carried top weight of 121 pounds, and was coupled with his stable mate, Colony Boy.

It was the seventh win in eleven starts for Lord Boswell, who was bothered considerably in the run to the first turn by Cedar Farm's Lovemore, but the Main Chance star moved up behind Little Nip at the half mile pole and drew away smartly when called upon by Dodson.

This was the first race for Waldron, who succeeded Tom Smith, barred last week by the New York Jockey Club for a year after a saliva test of Maine Chance Farm's Magnific Duel showed evidence that the horse had been stimulated.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—George Glamack, former North Carolina basketball star who was released from the Navy at Bainbridge, Md., Saturday, tonight signed a contract with the Rochester Royals of the National Basketball League and immediately reported for practice.

Glamack, a 6-foot 5-inch 215-pounder, is from Johnstown, Pa.

Murray-Walcott Fight Is Flop

Referee Halts Listless Affair and Declares Lat-ter the Winner

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Referee Eddie Leonard disqualified Lee Q. Murray, Norwalk, Conn., heavyweight tonight after eight rounds of listless fighting and awarded the decision to Jersey Joe Walcott, of Camden, N. J., in the 10-round feature event at the Coliseum.

The Maryland State Boxing Commission announced it was holding up Murray's share of the purse and was summoning him and his manager to give an accounting at the commission's meeting next Monday.

Walcott forced the fight through-out, while Leonard repeatedly warned Murray to mix it.

Murray, who has won eleven straight bouts in the Baltimore ring, weighed in at 207½ to Walcott's 189½.

The crowd boomed the main event from the fifth round on, and in the eighth, heavily wrapped newspapers began falling in the ring.

Woman Is Advised To Overlook Her Husband's Fling

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My husband and I have always been very happy and have raised a family of children, all of whom are now married. Recently I have noticed that my husband seems rather quiet and doesn't have much to say. And the other day someone told me that my husband is taking out a woman who lives in the next block, and who I thought was a good friend of mine. My husband has a good income and supports me and I certainly do not want to make a change this late in life. I am 58 years old and my husband is 60. I'm so unhappy over things as they are and have thought of exposing both of them. Is there a solution to my problem?

UNHAPPY
It would not be wise to make anything of your husband's interest in this other woman, who certainly hasn't proved to be a good friend. Men no longer in their first youth often go through this "silly" age. It's something like the last call for dinner in the dining-car, or one last fling, so they look around for some woman over whom they can become "silly."

My advice is to cultivate patience and a sense of humor. Above all, don't sit around and mope—go out to visit your friend, go to an occasional movie, invite your children home to see you. Do anything that will take your mind from this worry, which, after all, may not be anything serious.

Fiancee Wants Him To Change Jobs
Dear Miss Fairfax:
I'm in love with a girl who is 24 years old. I have just been discharged from the navy and we had expected to be married very soon. My father and I own a gas station a few miles out of town, on the highway, and I want to get back into business, but my fiancee wants me to get a job in town. I hoped we could keep this business, as my father is getting older and doesn't want to go to work every day, and I thought it would be nice to live with or near my folks. My girl has visited them and they like her. Don't you think my fiancee is very unreasonable in not wanting to help me so that we can build up a good business instead of working on a salary all our lives? She's very jealous and sometimes a bit selfish. If I take my mother out riding too many times, my fiancee objects. Would you advise me to keep my business and stay with my parents, or shall I marry this girl and get a job working on a salary? I'm 28 years of age.

IN DOUBT
A man who is ambitious and industrious would do much better working for himself to establish a business of his own. Your fiancee may not realize this, and she may be prejudiced against in-laws in general. If you don't love her enough to wait until she decides it's best to try your way, you'd better try to find a nice girl, who will go your way.

Would Be Part of College

The proposed building while being a part of the college would be a fitting project for the Alumni association, for Keyser, and for Mineral county in-as-much as the facilities would be available for the youth and citizenry of the entire region. Recreational facilities, and space for civic meetings and community gatherings would be provided in such a memorial building and the present gymnasium would serve as the setting for intercollegiate sports contests and as the gymnasium for men of the college.

Den G. Low, director of athletics at the college, who has worked out some preliminary plans, gave a preview of the proposed building. The first floor would have bowling alleys, lockers, shower rooms, a regulation swimming pool, offices for instructors, and five regulation handball courts; the second or ground floor would have offices, a lounge, 40' by 40' with a semi-private lounge on either side for study, writing, or card games; a fountain and grill; a room 100' by 64' for general gymnasium purposes and for the school athletic program for women; a large stage 40' by 40' to be used in classroom work and especially adapted for programs in which visual education methods are used. There would be two small rooms on either side of this.

The third floor would contain one large waiting room 30' by 50', suitable for ping pong and other games, and smaller rooms that would be used for a school doctor, school nurse, dance studio, class rooms, and rest rooms for women.

The site of the proposed building would be the former Cadden property purchased by the State of West Virginia for the school and adjacent to the present gymnasium.

Favorable Comment Made

Following the presentation of the plans and before the motion was made, there was a discussion by the group in which the following comments were made:

W. H. Barger, editor Mineral Daily News-Tribune: "I am heartily in favor of such a plan. The number of letters sent to our newspaper from people young and old concerning the need for a community center is only one indication of how much such a building would be appreciated. It will have not only the support of our paper but my financial support also."

Dr. Robert Bess, Potomac Valley hospital: "The list of World War II casualties from Potomac State alone makes me think that the realization of the need for a fitting memorial is surely uppermost in the minds of the alumni and of the community. This will be a big project, but I have seen the American people do big things before and I think it can be done here."

Harry Stegmaler, Cumberland: "Such a memorial building would furnish decent and moral recreation. In thinking of what to do to honor our servicemen and women we can decide to give a stone or bronze tablet or we can give a living memorial. The Potomac State Singers have just finished giving us a beautiful song, 'There is No Death.' They

Potomac State Alumni Will Sponsor Memorial Building for Servicemen

Proposed Structure Would Provide Recreational Facilities for Keyser

(Special to News)

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 12—At the annual luncheon of the Potomac State Alumni Association, held in conjunction with homecoming last Saturday, members voted unanimously in favor of the motion made by Ralph Martin and seconded by Martin Watson "that the Alumni association sponsor a suitable building as a memorial to those who have served us so well."

The motion followed the presentation of memorial plans presented to the group by Dr. P. E. Kercheval, Keyser, who represented an Advisory committee which had been working since last August on some fitting plan for a memorial to the men and women not only of Potomac State but of the immediate vicinity, who served the country in all the past wars.

Aside from the Potomac State gymnasium which has served, not only the students of the college but also the young people of the community, in their Boy Scout meetings and meetings of informal groups for recreation, it has been clearly seen that there is no central place in the community which approximates the need that is present for a recreational center.

could have sounded "Taps" for the dead. Which shall it be: 'Taps' for the dead, or 'There is No Death' for the spirit of the living?"

A motion passed unanimously to give the new Alumni association president, Dr. P. E. Kercheval, the power to appoint an advisory committee which will promote and execute the plans for the proposed memorial building.

Blueprints are now being prepared by L. D. Schmidt, architect at Fairmont, who has had a great deal of experience in the work of this kind, and who planned the physical education building at Fairmont State college.

Earl E. Manges, Cumberland attorney, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association at Hyndman school tonight at 7:45 o'clock.

Manges will speak on the topic, "Is There a Juvenile Delinquency Problem?"

Manges, who has expressed his convictions on this topic before other groups, has said that he is of the opinion that while there is no juvenile delinquency problem there is a parental problem. The mischiefous activities of some youngsters stems in large measure from the fact that the parents are not doing their duty by their children, the attorney thinks.

LISTEN WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)
I rode in a magnificent car the other day—
One of those haughty affairs with the delicate, disdainful lines of a baron and the strength of a mastodon. A tremendous brute, done in steel and enamel—
But you'd never have suspected its savage strength. No jar or bolt, no thud or thump, to that superb mechanism.
Power poured itself along the road in a silent rush of flight.
Jungle might and lightning fury lay in that purring, purring advance... thick walls would have gone down before it... strong men would have died beneath it... yet it was masked beneath an action as light and effortless as spindrift.
Power... the greatest thing in life... that's how it should happen. SILENTLY. But how seldom it does happen that way in human life.
Strong people are so apt to be noisy people... or shrill people. Noisy in tone and mannerism, noisy even in their habits and grooming.
We mistake that noise and shrillness for strength.
It isn't strength... it's the reverse of strength. We are noisy and shrill because there is a lack of strength... some secret fear which we try to cover with our noisiness.
Really strong people don't make a racket... THEY DON'T NEED TO.
Really strong people pour out their power smoothly, invincibly, like that great machine poured out its strength. There are no jars or thumps in their action... they are gentle... but terrific force masks within their gentleness.
Socrates drinking his hemlock made no outcry, nor Christ carrying His cross. Ugly Socrates, it is said, grinned at the nervous

Double Duty Mittens

These knitted mittens are just as smart worn for sports as with a fur coat. They're simple stockinette stitch—trim is single stitch. These mittens are easy enough for a beginner to knit. Do them in gay colors! Pattern 701 has directions: small, medium, large size.
Send fifteen cents in coins for this pattern to The Cumberland News 39, Needlecraft Dept., P. O. Box 162, Station O, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly name, pattern number, address, zone.
Fifteen cents more brings you our newest Needlecraft Catalog—the 1946 edition—112 illustrations of designs for crochet, knitting, quilts, embroidery, toys, handicraft—a free pattern for cuddle toys printed right in the catalog.

More Local Yanks Arrive in Isles

Another contingent of Cumberland soldiers has arrived in the United States after serving overseas with the armed forces.
They are T-4 William J. Twigg, who docked at Boston today aboard the S.S. Charles B. Aycock; T-4 John C. Blocher and Pfc. Charles J. Jones, who docked at San Francisco Monday aboard the S.S. Lycoming; Pfc. Oscar B. McCarty, who docked in Boston yesterday aboard the S.S. Smith Thompson.
Chief Warrant Officer John V. Marloff, docked in the New York Sunday aboard the S.S. William A. Graham; T-5 Amel D. Gano arrived in Boston Saturday aboard the S.S. Thomas Johnson; T-Sgt. Kenneth D. Wise, 26, Browning street, and Sgt. Kenneth L. Valentine, 418, Independence street, arrived in Boston Saturday aboard the S. S. Robert T. Paine.
Staff Sgt. William W. Bart arrived in New York Saturday aboard the S. S. Norway Victory and T-5 Ralph Raley arrived in New York Saturday on the S.S. Marine Fox.

Fractured Skull Found as Cause Of Keller Death

Injury Resulted from Cushioned Blow, Corson Says; Probe Continues

A severe fractured skull resulting from a cushioned blow caused the death of Capt. Harry Russell Keller, 33, Wiley Ford, W. Va., veteran who died suddenly in Memorial hospital Sunday evening. Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner, said last night.

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, said whether or not Keller met with foul play was finally settled in a full trial had not been determined. In the meantime, the investigation is being continued and a number of persons will be questioned today at the state's attorney's office.

Discovery of the fractured skull was made at an autopsy performed at 3 p. m. yesterday at the Stein funeral home by Dr. Corson. Two army medical officers from Camp Ritchie were present.

Six Inches Long
The fracture, about six inches in length, extended from in front of the left ear to the base of the skull, according to Dr. Corson, who said there was a profuse hemorrhage within the skull.

Indicating that the blow which Keller suffered was a cushioned one is the fact that the skin was not broken, Dr. Corson stated. He said there was a very slight swelling over the left temple but that very close examination would be required to notice it.

Only other marks on the body were a slight contusion on the left knee and a slight contusion on the right hand, Dr. Corson said.

Following the autopsy yesterday, army officers took the body to camp Ritchie. It will be returned to Cumberland within the next future.

Keller arrived in Cumberland from Fort George Meade Saturday evening, a day before he was expected home by his wife, rode a bus to a South Cumberland beer parlor and then met Charles Goodnow, Jr., at the B. and O. YMCA about 1 a. m. Sunday, authorities reported.

Drunk, Harris Says
From there, Keller and Goodnow went to the Hendricks hotel to the room of James McElvey on the second floor where a large group of men and women were drinking "to a greater or lesser degree." Detective Edwin Lilla reported. Harris said Keller "was drunk. There's no question about that."

There was a fight in the room about 3 a. m. and a half hour later Keller reportedly was alone in the room. His movements from 3:30 a. m. until he was found sitting on a curb in front of the hotel at 5 a. m. have not been determined.

Once Keller was found in what was believed to be a drunken condition, he was dragged into a hallway at the hotel and an hour later was carried to a room in the hotel where he remained until about 5 p. m. when he was removed to the hospital. He died at 6:20 p. m.

BLUE AND GRAY VETERANS PARTICIPATE IN LOCAL PARADE

The small unit of blue and gray veterans representing the Twenty-ninth Division made a proud showing in the Armistice day parade last night.

They looked trim and carried themselves in a military manner. They were not on MP honor guardmen in the reviewing stand who know a veteran when they see one.

Just before parade time, one veteran of the hard-fighting One Hundred Fifteenth Infantry commented, "Let's make it look good. I suppose in a way, we are representing a good many guys who are still over on the other side, some for good."

The Twenty-ninth boys marched in the fourth division along with the Amvets, another group of veterans many of whom had seen as much as three years of foreign service. They cut a fine figure as they marched past the reviewing stand, every man in step, with "eye's left."

Up at the head of the parade marches the members of Companies C and D, Maryland State Guard, Cumberland's crack contingent.

Sale of Christmas Seals Is Scheduled To Start on Monday

The sale of Christmas seals here will begin on Monday when packages are mailed to between 10,000 and 11,000 persons, William J. Edwards, Allegheny county chairman of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, said yesterday.

More than $4,000 was raised in the county in the sale of seals last year and Edwards said he hopes that figure will be equalled or exceeded this year.

Since the drive a year ago an X-ray laboratory has been established in the health department and more than 300 X-rays have been taken. With the next year it is planned to use portable equipment to make X-rays in schools and industrial plants.

The Christmas seal sale is the sole support of the state tuberculosis association.

Capper Says Greater Parental Interest Would Reduce Delinquency

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—Greater parental interest in children could do much to reduce juvenile delinquency, Judge Walter C. Capper declared today in his charge to the grand jury at the opening of the circuit court's November term.

"The court believes that it is the duty of those having custody of young children to exercise a restraining influence upon them and to curb criminal tendencies before it is too late," Judge Capper said.

He added that parents should see that their children attend school and churches and are home in bed at a reasonable hour.

BUCKETS OF MONEY—When the energetic members of Voiture 164, Forty and Eight, start out to collect money they don't fool around—they take their buckets with them. Last night the members collected a total of $917.31 from thousands of Cumberland citizens who lined the streets for the Armistice day parade. The spectators gave freely after being informed that their donations were for the annual "Gifts for Yanks Who Gave" Christmas gift program of Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion. Shown above with a washtub of money are (left to right) Paul C. Weisenmiller, C. William Teubner, chef de gare, and Clarence Eyre.

40 and 8 Bucket Brigade Collects Funds for Gifts

Total of $917.31 Is Contributed by Crowd Watching Parade

Prospects continue bright that invalided veterans in Maryland service hospitals will get a hearty "Merry Christmas" in the form of Christmas gifts this year from Cumberland, Md.

Last night, the members of Voiture 164, Forty and Eight Society, gave the cause a boost by collecting $917.31 in bills and small change just before the Armistice Day parade.

The voiture members, clad in yellow gowns, formed a bucket brigade, and went before the parade soliciting spectators to "dig deep." Spectators did.

When the bucket brigade took their buckets to the Forty and Eight lodge rooms later, the total contributions partially filled a large washtub. There were fifty-five one dollar bills in the collection. The remainder consisted of silver. It required three men to carry the washtub.

The collection goes into the growing fund already collected by the committee of Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, headed by Ambrose J. Burkey. Liberal donations have been received from fraternal organizations and unions, with the largest to date being $300 from Local 1874, TWUA.

Burkey announced last night that the cards to be placed in the gift boxes will be labeled "from the citizens of Cumberland" and the recipients will be given the address of Cumberland newspapers which will publish some of the replies from recipients of the generosity of the big Armistice Day crowd.

Authorities Report Theft of Truckload Of Lumber Here

The daring theft of a truckload of lumber valued at over $800 in this city over the weekend was reported to Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, yesterday afternoon.

Harris said Thomas Baker, former local bartender, Midland, and Lionel Clark, Barton, said they purchased part of the old tannery near the Valley Street bridge in order to secure seasoned lumber for the construction of a night club on Vale Summit road.

The lumber had been stacked in neat piles after the building, owned by the Buchanan Lumber Company, was razed.

Baker and Clark reported a truck backed up to the lumber sometime Sunday night or early yesterday morning and hauled away from 10,000 to 12,000 feet of lumber they valued at from $800 to $1,000.

opening of the trial, Jackson replied:

"Admitting that a delay, which cannot exceed a few days, may be occasioned, it is respectfully suggested that the precise day this trial will start is a less important consideration than whether it is to fall of one of its principal purposes x x x."

The French and the Russians planned to file motions in connection with Krupp, but their contents were not disclosed pending the actual placing of the documents with the tribunal.

Vale Summit Is First Town in Allegany County To Reach Its Goal

The third audited report revealed a total of $45,943 or 38% of the goal of $118,671 for the annual National War Fund in Allegany County and Cumberland Community Chest campaign at the meeting of workers and leaders held at the YMCA yesterday noon.

Cresapoint, Mrs. Herbert Heinemann, chairman, made its first report yesterday with $90, or 14% of its goal of $650. Lonsconing-Pekin, Joseph K. Hauglin, chairman, also made its first report, with $334, or 11% of its goal. All county communities have promised a report Wednesday.

The opposition parties boycotted the elections and refused to enter lists of candidates on the ground that the elections were undemocratic.

Union committee members decided they would construct a float that would pay tribute to all of the chief branches of the armed services. The result is shown above. The float was an impressive sight as it wheeled slowly down Baltimore street last night.

Contempt Hearing Against B. and O. Set for Thursday

A hearing in contempt of court proceedings against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company brought by the board of county commissioners will be heard Thursday by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The board obtained an injunction to prevent trains from blocking the Mexico Farms crossing, following numerous complaints from residents of that section. It was later charged that the trains continued to stand on the crossing in violation of the court order. Railroad officials, engineers and conductors of two trains have been summoned to appear in court.

On Friday, a hearing will be held in the action of Harry I. O'Rourke against the A. S. Abell Company, publisher of the Baltimore Sunpapers, for a restraining order to compel the firm to continue supplying him with papers for distribution in the Cumberland area.

O'Rourke contends the company fled notice it would stop sending him papers and that the action was without cause, but attorneys for the firm declared circulation dropped after he took over the agency and that a contract with him gives the company authority to terminate the agreements.
